TEETH EXTRACTED WITHOUT PAIN

BY THE USE OF

NITROUS OXIDE GAS, OR VITALIZED AIR.

This is believed to be the safest and most pleasant Anæsthetic known to the Dental or Surgical Profession Unlike Chloroform or Ether, it leaves the patient feeling as well after its use as before.

C. R ROWLEY, having spent considerable time with some of the best operators in the country, feels confident that he can prepare and administer this Anæsthetic upon strictly scientific principles.

Tooth Ache relieved instantly. Inflamed, Bleeding, and Swollen Gums treated successfully. Teeth carefully cleaned, and a good quality of Tooth Brushes and Powder supplied.

PLATE WORK

Will be executed in the best manner. C. S. ROWLEY has been practicing in Decatur and vicinity ten years, and he has recently discovered and invented a New and Improved Method by which Dental plates may be fitted as snugly and firmly as can be desired. All work warranted.

Persons living in the country wishing Teeth Extracted or any other Dental service, will please address the above named by mail.

E. A. BLACKMAN, Printer,
DECATUR, MICH.

Introductory.

In the march of events it is desirable and proper occasionally to pause and look about ourselves, and discern, if possible, what and where we are and whither we are tending. The development of our country is making gigantic strides; yesterday a forest—to-day a town—to-morrow a city. The photographer fastens the image of the present upon his plate and preserves it for future generations. The book we now present to the public is intended as a sort of typograph of Van Buren County for 1869. Retrospects are profitable. Posterity should remember its antecedents. To this end we have been at great pains to procure accurate and reliable information as to the present status of the County—its resources, population, growth and business facilities. We have diligently searched Township and County records, conversed with early settlers and "oldest inhabitants," and in short have availed ourselves of all known resources of information to obtain accurate sketches of the towns and villages. We have sought faithfully to rescue from oblivion the most interesting incidents of the early settlement of the County. If inaccuracies and imperfections have crept into our typograph, it is partly because Young America was too restless to sit for his picture, and partly because the whirligig of events has sometimes rudely jostled our camera, and not because of any inattention to business on our part.

In presenting the VAN BUREN COUNTY GAZETTEER AND BUSINESS DIRECTORY to the public, we trust that a little modest self-gratulation will be admissible. We have no hesitation in saying that we have done the public a service and rendered an equivalent for all the money we shall receive for our labor. Important statistics are here gathered in a compact and valuable shape, suitable for the archives of Township and County. That as an advertising medium it has met a want of the business community, is abundantly attested by the liberal patronage which that department has received.

The mechanical execution of the work speaks not only for itself, but speaks loudly for the printing establishment of E. A. Blackman, where the printing was done.

Our thanks are due to a host of friends and patrons, who have sustained and encouraged us in our undertaking, and especially to the press of the County, which has from time to time made kindly mention of us.

Decatur, May, 1869.

DECATUR, MICH.

Descriptive Sketch of Van Buren County.

VAN BUREN COUNTY lies in the south-western part of Michigan, between the 42d and 43d degrees of north latitude, and on the 86th meridian of west longitude. It is bounded on the north by Allegan County, east by Kalamazoo County, south by Cass and Berrien Counties and west by Berrien County and Lake Michigan. It is divided into timbered lands and openings, the former largely predominating, especially in the northern part of the county. Its timber is various and valuable, but consists chiefly of pine, oak, walnut, whitewood, ash, beech, maple and elm.

The surface of the country is generally undulating, rarely assuming a dead level, and still more rarely rising into abrupt hills. It is besprinkled with a hundred beautiful lakelets, which greatly relieve its otherwise rather tame and monotonous scenery. These small bodies of water vary in extent from twenty acres to one thousand acres.

The soil in the openings is a light sandy loam, but very productive, especially of cereals and fruits. That of the timbered lands is a stronger soil generally of a darker loam and better for the production of grasses. Geologically, Van Buren County has as yet developed nothing of special interest; Geologists class it in the Huron Groupe, Devonian Period. One of its great wants is stone for building purposes. Even clay suitable for making durable bricks is rarely found.

Its material wealth consists chiefly in its splendid timbered and fruit lands, its productive soil and the energy and enterprise of its inhabitants.

As a wheat producing district, both as to quality and quantity, it stands preeminent in the State, and for quality, indeed, may safely challenge the world. As a fruit growing County, Van Buren is second only to Berrien. It produces a great abundance and of the best quality; peaches, apples, pears, quinces, grapes and all kinds of small fruit. That portion of the County lying on Lake Michigan, is part of the world-renowned Michigan Fruit Belt.

The climate is equable, and the winters mild, as compared with other sections of the country in the same latitude. Probably the influences that modify the temperature along the "fruit belt" extend in a limited degree across the County.

Of the commercial interests of the County, that of grain stands first, the fruit interests second and that of lumber third. Our grand old forests are rapidly disappearing, hundreds of acres are cut down every year to fill the ravenous maw of the steam saw, shingle and lath mill, and worse still, acres on acres of stalwart beeches are being felled and burned in funeral piles, to make way for the greedy grain grower. Is it not vandalism to despoil one kind of wealth to make way for another?

The County is watered by Paw Paw and Black Rivers and their tributaries, in addition to its numerous small lakes. The principal villages are Decatur, South Haven, Lawton, Lawrence, Mattawan, Paw Paw, Breedsville, Bangor and Hartford. Of these, Decatur, Lawton and Mattawan are on the Mich. Central R. R., thus placing the County in direct communication with the outer world. In South Haven we have a seaport town, which, in the summer season, puts us en rapport with Chicago. The County has also one Railroad which is exclusively its own, whereof Lawton and Paw Paw are the termini.

It is, perhaps, safe to say that no County in the State is improving more rapidly in agricultural wealth, growth of its villages, and in the education and intelligence of its people. In 1864 the population of the County was 17,820. To-day it probably exceeds 30,000.

BANGOR.

Historical and Descriptive Sketch of Bangor.

THE present township of Bangor is a part of territory which was organized in the winter of 1836—7, as the township of South Haven. It comprised what are now the townships of Columbia, Bangor, Geneva, South Haven and Deerfield. At that time, the whole territory contained only eight residents, and only one of the eight resided in what is now Bangor. This one was Chas. U. Cross, who located what is now a part of the village of Bangor, in July, 1834. He in company with J. R. Monroe, in the spring and summer of 1835 opened a road from Paw Paw to South Haven. In 1837, Cross built the first house in the township, and moved his family into it on the 8th day of March of that year. Although situated miles from any neighbors, they saw plenty of company in the shape of land-lookers. During the same season, three other families moved in, viz: John Southard, C. M. Northrup and M. M. Briggs.

It was not until 1853, that Bangor was organized into a separate township, and received its present name.

In 1846, C. U. Cross and his brother Calvin Cross, built a saw-mill on the site now occupied by the mills of J. H. Nyman, Esq. The first store was opened in 1852, by A. Comstock & M. P. Watson. The first school was taught by Miss Mahitable Northrup, in 1845.

The township was covered with a heavy growth of timber, consisting principally of beech, sugar maple, whitewood, walnut, pine, hemlock, elm, &c. It is well watered by Black River and its tributaries, Maple Creek, Crooked Creek, Butternut Creek and Cedar Creek. The soil is various, but a heavy loam predominates. It is well adapted to wheat and Indian corn.

The village of Bangor is situated in the south-east corner of the township, on the Black River, which furnishes at that place the second best water-power in the County. It is now owned by J. H. Nyman; his manufactories consist of a saw mill, planing mill, sash, blind, and woolen factory and grist mill. Besides these, the township contains two water saw mills, two steam saw mills, and one grist mill. As an agricultural township, it ranks among the first in the County. Its present population is about 1400, Number of voters, 300.

[The publishers return their thanks to Chas. U. Cross, Esq., for valuable information, and for the interest he has manifested in their work.]

COLUMBIA.

Historical and Descriptive Sketch of Columbia.

The township of Columbia is one of the northern tier of towns in Van Buren County, and lies between Geneva, on the west, and Bloomingdale, on the east. It has two post offices, one at the flourishing village of Breedsville and one at Bear Lake.

The first settlement of the township was made in 1835, by Silas Breed, J. N. Howard, A. Babot, and Samuel Watson, on the present site of Breedsville. In 1836 J. W. Hinkley purchased the water power and erected a saw-mill on the site now occupied by A. S. Brown. Mr. Hinkley afterward became one of the permanent settlers. In 1837 Elijah Knowles, and a man named Barrows, built the first tannery, and during the same year a school house was built and a school taught by Lorenzo D. Cate. A post office was also established the same year. The first child born in the settlement was Nancy, daughter of J. N. Howard. The first death was that of Sarah Taylor, adopted daughter of Silas Breed, in the winter of 1835-6. In the autumn of 1837 Samuel Watson died alone in the woods on his way home from Paw Paw. The first marriage was that of Geo. Cochran to Sarah, daughter of Samuel Watson.

The southern and eastern portions of the township, being hard timbered lands, were settled first. The northern and western portions are still unsettled, being timbered with valuable pine and hemlock, for lumbering purposes.

The surface of the township is rolling, and well watered by small streams and numerous lakes. The lakes and streams abound with fish. Columbia has a rich soil, ranking second to none in the county in the production of cereals and grasses.

There are now in successful operation in the township, two water and three steam saw-mills, one water and two steam power tanneries, one grist mill, and three shingle mills.

Breedsville has five dry goods stores, one grocery, four blacksmith shops, one wagon shop, three shoe shops, and one furnace and machine shop, and first-class engine lathe. It has two daily mails, one from Decatur and one from South Haven. Among the live men of the place, those to whose enterprise it is indebted for its prosperity, it is proper to mention the name of W. J. Scrimger, of Scrimger's mills, Scrimger & Son dry goods men, W. H. Knowles dry goods, La Rue & Baker, drugs and dry goods, O. W. Quint horse farrier and blacksmith, and Messrs. Whitney & Koons dealers in agricultural implements.

[The compilers desire to acknowledge their obligations to Chas. B. Hurlburt, Esq., for the main facts in the above sketch of Columbia.]

DECATUR.

Historical and Descriptive Sketch of Decatur.

The first settlement in Van Buren County, was made in what is now in the township of Decatur, on Little Prairie Ronde, in 1829. On the 26th day of March, of that year, Dolphin Morris and Henry D. Swift were guided thither by one Squire Thompson, of Pokagon Prairie. Dolphin Morris settled on the farm which he now occupies, and Swift selected the farm now owned by LeGrand Anderson. For two years they were the only settlers in the County. About the year 1832, Samuel Morris, brother of Dolphin, Le Grand Anderson, David Curry and George Tittle, settled in the neigborhood, and in 1833, one Eckenberger, a hunter and trapper, settled on the place known as the old Charles farm. The year 1835 brought Thomas Scott, Wm. Wilson, Joseph VanHise and McKinster, to the settlement, and after that time the township filled up rapidly.

Many anecdotes of thrilling interest are related by the survivors of those primitive days. How they fought with poverty and wrestled with famine and destitution, how when starvation stared them in the face, the very elements took sides against them, and how nearly they fell victims to the blighting frosts and destructive storms of those unproductive seasons, how they stood in peril of wild beasts and how they were menaced by Indians, are all themes upon which those gray haired and honored pioneers love to dilate.

In December, 1830, death came to the settlement and removed a son of Dolphin Morris.

The first wedding was that of Elijah Goble to Miss Eliza Tittle ; the first birth was that of Jonathan Curry.

Of the pioneers we have mentioned, Dolphin Morris and Le Grand Anderson still survive, and in a hale old age, enjoy the fruits of their early privation and toil. But the visitor of to-day, at Little Prairie Ronde, partaking of their generous hospitality, and viewing their princely estates, embodying all the material comforts and blessings of life, finds it difficult to carry his imagination back to the time when his host wrestled with privation and had very nearly his match in keeping the wolf from the door. Nevertheless, the retrospect is profitable, and it is meet that we should ever hold in grateful remembrance those who paved the way for the comfortable times which we enjoy to-day. When we go to bed in a palace sleeping car for a comfortable sleep to wake up in Detroit, let us not forget that, to them, this was a perilous and toilsome journey of weeks. And when we take a cushioned seat, upon steel springs, for a pleasant drive upon a plank road across the swamp, let us go back forty years and remember those who waded that swamp with bare feet. in imminent peril of the deadly moccasin and massasauga. The independent farmer of to-day who walks with complacent pride among his well stabled and well fed flocks and herds, his granaries and cribs, his storehouse full of agricultural implements with all the modern improvements, will feel his complacency enhanced by contrast if he will but let his memory go back to the days of the sickle and the wooden plowshare, to the times when flocks and herds and crops were alike shelterless, and grain was beaten out of its husk with a flail, or trodden out by oxen with only the bare earth for a threshing floor. And if inclined to smile at the primitive johnny cake manufactured from corn, cracked with a wooden pestle, in a hollow excavated in a stump, let it be a reverent smile, for it was those early struggles and toils and privations of our grandfathers ond grandmothers which made possible those beautifully white wheaten loaves from Abbott & Mathews' best XXX superfine which we so enjoy to-day.

The first school taught in the county was opened in 1835 in the house of Dolphin Morris, with about twenty pupils. It was taught by Wm. Alexander, a Virginian and a relative of Le Grand Anderson.

The Methodists were the first religious denomination to gain a foothold in the county. They held their first quarterly meeting at the house of George Tittle on the 27th of July 1834.

The primitive character of the dwellings of the early settlers may be inferred from the fact that no mill for the manufacture of lumber was built until 1846. In that year Hubbel Warner built one in the south-western part of the town.

For years the nearest grist mill was at Niles.

The year 1832 seems to have been one of peculiar trial to the early settlers. In the spring of that year the corn having been twice destroyed by frost, Dolphin Morris sent a man by the name of Kirkendall and John Tittle, a boy of fifteen, with a pack horse one hundred miles to Fort Defiance, on Maumee River, for two bushels of seed corn. They returned on Saturday night, and on Sunday morning the settlers turned out en masse and planted it. That was the only corn raised in the settlement that year.

There was an Indian alarm in the spring of the same year, and the able bodied settlers were all ordered to report forthwith at Niles, armed and equipped and with ten days rations. It does not appear, however, that any of them lost their lives, or were detained from home for any great length of time.

In 1835 (June 20th) the settlement was again visited by a destructive frost.

Decatur and Porter were together organized as a township in the year 1837.

Porter was set off as a separate township about the year 1845.

The township of Decatur derives its name from our country's celebrated naval officer of that name. A belt of swamp land one and a half miles in breadth stretches across it from N. E. to S. W. This belt is heavily timbered with tamarack, black ash, etc., and is as yet almost entirely unimproved. With this exception the township has a fine soil and is in a good state of cultivation. There are a few sections of dry timbered land, but it originally consisted chiefly of openings. The soil is mostly sandy, productive and exceedingly easy of cultivation. About one-fourth of the township lies south-east of the belt of swamp and embraces a portion of Little Prairie Ronde. It is watered by Dowagiac creek and several lakes, the largest of which is called Lake of the Woods and lies partly in the township of Hamilton.

Decatur Village.

The village of Decatur, the principal station on the Michigan Central Rail Road in Van Buren County, sprang into existence in response to the first scream of the locomotive in 1849. Previous to this, however, Chas. T. Tucker had settled on the present site of the village and built a house. This was in 1847. In 1848 L. R. Barker built a hotel on the site now occupied by Moore & Lisk, corner of Phelps and Sherwood streets. The following year the late Col. Phelps opened a store on the lot now occupied by the Downs House. For a year this was the only store in town. The first school house in the village was built in 1848. It was the building now fitted up and owned and occupied by the Baptist Society for religious worship. A school was opened with about twenty pupils, which was taught by Miss Sarah Cook, in the winter of 1848-9.

The site of the village of Decatur was originally obtained of the U. S. Government by Messrs Beers & Sherwood, of N. Y. City, in a grant to them of 5,000 acres. These gentlemen, though never residents of the place, seem to have left their impress upon it and to have, to some extent, given character to its institutions. In 1850 they built a steam saw mill in the south-western part of the village, on land now occupied by Anthony McKay. This mill was afterward converted into a distillery, which, in its turn, has happily disappeared, leaving only rank grass to mark the spot it once defiled.

In 1854 the present business centre of the village was occupied as follows: Ira Nash kept a dry goods store on the corner now occupied by Abbott Bro's. Trowbridge & Harris kept a general variety store on the corner now occupied by Aaron Hathaway; W. C. Tucker, a general variety store, on that now occupied by Trowbridge & Hill, and Henry Canoll, a drug store, where Higgins & Squiers now keep a grocery store.

The village was first incorporated by the Board of Supervisors in Oct. 1859, and afterward rechartered by the Legislature, by an act approved March 16th, 1861. The first president of the corporation was E. Parker Hill; the first Recorder, Orrin T. Welch. Since its incorporation the village has grown rapidly, and more especially since the close of the late war. Village lots have been and are in constant demand and new plots being constantly laid out and put in market. It is safe to say that no town on the line of the M. C. R. R. enjoys a greater degree of material prosperity. It now contains a population of two thousand five hundred.

Among its notable institutions there is none of which it is more justly proud than its Union Graded School. It consists of five departments and employs one male and five female theachers. The school building is a massive brick structure, occupying a most eligible site, overlooking the whole village, with ample and delightful play grounds ornamented with beautiful shade trees. A more particular account of the school, its organization and gradation will be found in its appropriate place in this book. The village contains four church edifices, viz: Presbyterian, Methodist, Universalist, and Baptist, and one (Catholic) in process of erection. It also contains seven dry goods stores, two drug stores, six grocery and provision stores, two hardwares, three clothing stores, three shoe stores, four hotels, three harness shops, one banking house, two meat markets, one livery stable, one photographer, three millinery shops, four dress makers, two barber shops, one bakery, one flour and feed store and two jewelry stores. It has a first class printing office and weekly newspaper (VAN BUREN COUNTY REPUBLICAN) a new and splendid flouring mill (Abbott & Matthews'), two planing mills, a stave factory, a heading factory a steam saw and grist mill, a tannery, cabinet shop and a carriage manufactory.

There are many institutions, enterprises and business operations in progress in the village that are deserving of especial notice and commendation, but lest the distinctions we might make should appear invidious we forbear. We have, however, taken the liberty of printing in capitals, in the village list, the names of those business men and women to whom the village is mainly indebted for its prosperity.

HARTFORD.

Historical and Descriptive Sketch of Hartford.

HARTFORD—Town 3 south, range 16 west—is situated in the western part of Van Buren county, and is gently undulating in surface, and was originally very heavy timbered with black walnut, white wood, ash, basswood, beech and maple, and more or less interspersed with butternut, oak, elm and hickory and some small sections of good pine. The town is generally well watered, being traversed from east to west by the Paw Paw river and numerous tributaries. The soil is a rich sandy loam, unsurpassed in productiveness in all the fruits and cereals of this latitude. In common with all this region of country, there is but a moderate supply of stone and those, too, of a poor quality for building purposes. There is a very good bed of marl in the south part of the town, from which good lime is manufactured. On the farm of the writer, near the west line of section twelve, there is a pure white sulphur spring, issuing from the top a mound of about four feet above the level of the adjacent land. Springs impregnated with iron and other minerals, are found in various parts of the town, and strong indications of petroleum are found along the whole extent of the Paw Paw valley.

The town was organized and named in 1840. It was first agreed to call the town Hartland, after the town from which Mr. Olds, the first settler, emigrated, but when it was found there was another town in the State by that name, the wish of Mr. Olney to call it Hartford was acceeded to. The first town meeting was held in April, 1840. at the house of Smith Johnson, and B. A. Olney was elected supervisor. The first couple married in the town was Thomas Kemp to Mehitable Cone, September, 22, 1844. Mr. Kemp was one of the first settlers in the town of Bangor, and the bride was a sister of Mrs. Olds. The first death in the town was James Spinnings, May 2, 1841. The first male child born in the town was Luke Conklin, son of Thomas Conklin, born December 3, 1838. The first road laid out in the town was what is called the Watervliet road, in the spring of 1837, by the commissioners of Lawrence.

The town was first settled on the north east quarter of section 29, by Ferdino Olds and family, consisting of his wife and daughter, at that time 18 months old. Mr. Olds left his family at the house of Lyman G. Hill, the nearest settler, until he could put up a rude shanty for their reception on his own land. About the 25th of January, 1837, they were fairly settled, where they remained until the death of Mr. Olds in October, 1856.

There was, and there still is, a remnant of the Potawatamie Indians in the neighborhood, and at that early day they had a great curiosity to see every new comer, and being of a shy, wild nature, they had a habit, when they approached a white man's shanty—chee mow ker man's wigwam—of walking entirely around it and looking in at the windows, and then approaching the the door carefully, with the still step of moccasins or bare feet, and open it slyly, just wide enough to admit the head, which is quickly thrust in at the opening, and the face turned in every direction to see what is inside. It was after an occurrence of this kind, when Mr. Olds had gone to St. Joe to work for money to buy a cow, that Mrs. Olds made up her mind to leave the shanty with her child and take refuge at the house of Lyman G. Hill, distant about five miles, until Mr. Olds returned. She accordingly wrote on the door for the edification of Mr. Olds, when he returned, what her intention was, and when the Indian was fairly out of sight, she took to the woods with her child, to carry out her intention of going to Mr. Hill's. On her way, it was necessary to cross Pine creek, which she expected to do on a log where she had crossed before, but in her hurry and fright, she missed the trail, and came to the creek at a new place where there was no chance to cross, and in her excitement, she dropped down her child and ran along the creek for a considerable distance to find the log, but when she returned the child was gone, and the mother, perfectly frantic, ran up and down through the brush to find her. She presently discovered her lost one in a thicket of brush, picking squaw berries, quite contented and happy. Pursuing her way, she reached Mr. Hill's in safety, just before dark. This child, Miss Julia Olds, is now the wife of Ansel E. Reynolds, Esq.. one of our most respected citizens, a leading merchant of Hartford Centre. The next settler in the town was Henry Hammond and family, consisting of his wife and two small children. Mr. Hammond's went to work to put up a shanty, and in one week he had it so far completed that they moved into it with all their effects.

They lived in their shanty till some time in May, and then Mr. and Mrs Hammond, without any help, rolled up a good log house, 16 x 22 feet, and in the course of the summer, they chinked and mudded and finished it so that it was quite comfortable. On the 3d day of January, 1838, there was born in this house Miss Catherine Hammond, the first child born in the town of Hartford, and now the wife of Hiram E. Stratton, Esq., of this town. The first school house was built in the spring of 1842, and the first school was taught that summer by Olive Pool, for one dollar and twenty-five cents per week, with only five scholars.

The next settlers were Burrell A. Olney, Thomas Conklin and James Spinnings, who arrived on the 14th day of March, 1837. Messrs. Olney and Spinnings by the 1st of June, had six acres of heavy timbered land all cleared off and planted. Messrs. Olney and Conklin brought on their families the latter part of September, the same year. Mr. Olney in a pre-eminent degree, combined that physical and mental energy which was peculiarly adapted to such emergencies as were likely to arise in the settlement of a new country; a vigorous, athletic man, with that unyielding ambition which never relaxes an effort until complete success is achieved. Mr. Olney settled on the west half of section 33, without any team or wagon or plow, in fact, without anything except his land. In the fall of 1838, he purchased a pair of three-year-old steers on credit, and kept them about ten years, during which time he logged up and cleared over 200 acres, with no other team.

Hezakiah Olds, Smith Johnson and Alexander Newton settled in 1837. Mr. Newton settled on section 13, and Mr. Johnson on section 17. The next year, Richard B. Everett and Peter Williamson settled on section 26. In the latter part of March, 1839, Joseph Ruggles and family settled on section 31. They came from Huron county Ohio, with a yoke of oxen and wagon. Mr. Ruggles put up on this place in the spring of 1842 a frame barn, and in 1844 a frame house. These were among the first frame buildings erected in the town. In the spring of 1840, Ira Allen, a wounded soldier of the war of 1812, settled on section 21. Mr. Allen still lives in the town, and still carries the British bullet in his hip by which he was wounded in 1813 on the Niagara frontier. Josiah Hill and Cornelius Williams bought out Mr. Newton and settled there. Mr. Hill still resides there, one of our oldest and most respected citizens. The other settlers of that year were Levi M. Drew and Alva DeLong. In the fall of 1841, Charles P. Sheldon settled on section 2, the first settler north side of river, and brought on his family in the spring of 1842, and his nearest neighbors for a long time were two large families of native Americans—Wawbimlito and family, of the Potawatamie tribe, and Commooteah, a war chief of the Ottawas, and his sons Paw Paw, Pikwaxie and Ottawawwash. These two Indian families were kind, good neighbors, and formed a strong attachment to the Cheemowkerman. In the spring of 1843, Mr. Sheldon was elected Supervisor, and at his instance a tax was voted at that time to build the first bridge across the river, on the line between sections 9 and 10. He held the office several times. He also held the office of Justice of the Peace for eleven (11) consecutive years, and was elected Representative in the State Legislature in 1852.

It was about this time that Felix and Surell Rassett and Edward Eber became permanent settlers in the town. Felix Rassett built a frame house on the Watervliet road, in the fall and winter of 1843, which is supposed to be the first framed dwelling built in the town. In the following spring, 1844, Bartholomew Shorra settled at Hartford Centre. It was during this year that Howland C. and Emory O. Taylor and Austin Beaman settled. When the writer came into the town in May, 1844, there were but two settlers on the north side of the river in the town—Charles P. Shelden and Paul Weibar. Sheldon sold out to Eri Beebe, and moved to Cedar county, Iowa, in 1855, at present writing, being a member of the Iowa Legislature. The other settlers who came in about the same time were G. W. Springer, Abram Young, Clark A. Lapham, Pollard Taplin and Martin Allen, son of Ira Allen. In the fall of 1843, Mr. William Thomas bought out Smith Johnson, and settled where he now resides. Mr. Thomas was elected Supervisor, and has held the office of Justice of the Peace most of the time since he came into the town.

The writer purchased a site for a water power on the river, on the north-west quarter of section 12, and commenced the improvement of the first water power improved in the town in the autumn of that year, and about the 10th of April, 1847, completed the first saw mill built in the town.

At present the population of the town 1800, the number of voters 350, and the estimated valuation of the personal and real estate of the town is $1,000,000. The village has four dry good stores, two hardware stores, two groceries, one jeweler and one hotel; one steam saw mill and one beautiful church, post office and two physicians.

To Hon. Fabius Miles, the writer of the foregoing historical and descriptive sketch, we tender of our sincere thanks for the aid he has given us, and interest he has taken in our work.

KEELER.

Historical and Descriptive Sketch of Keeler.

The township of Keeler occupies the south western corner of Van Buren county. Its western boundary is less than sixteen miles from Lake Michigan. The surface is generally level, and as an agricultural township it is second to none in the county. The soil is of a fine sandy loam and produces the finest wheat in the world. The timber is chiefly oak, or, what is better known as "oak openings." Some portions of the township were originally covered with nothing but scrubby oak, and the impression obtained among the early settlers that land which produced such dwarfed and stunted trees, must be valuless. But experience has demonstrated that they are among the most productive lands we have, especially for cereals. The town is nearly all in a high state of cultivation, and the farmers are rapidly accumulating wealth.

The township was first settled in 1835, by W. H. Keeler, from whom it derives its name, and Tobias Byers. In 1836, W. H. Keeler, built a hotel on the place now owned and occupied by John Rosevelt, and L. G. Hill opened a shoe shop the same year. Doctor Z. Sykes commenced the practice of medicine in 1838. The first school was taught in 1838–9 by Mrs. Williamson, with twelve pupils—the whole number of pupils in town being only twelve. In 1847, G. Leach built the first saw mill.

The township was organized in 1839, and then consisted of "towns 3 and 4 south of range 16 west." The first postoffice was established in the settlement near where John and Jacob Rosevelt now live. The following are some of the principal officers elected at the first township meeting in 1839, at which only 29 votes were cast: Supervisor, James Hill; Town Clerk, E. H. Keeler; Justices of the Peace, L. G. Hill, B. F. Chadwick, B. A. Olney and R. B. Everett; Collector, Thomas Conklin; Highway Commissioners, W. H. Keeler, R. B. Everett and Tobias Byers. It has now 331 voters and about 1600 inhabitants, with ten school districts, averaging fifty pupils each.

At the centre of the town there is a flourishing village of four or five hundred inhabitants. The name of the post office is Keelersville, but the place is better known as Keeler Centre. It contains two fine churches, three stores, a blacksmith shop, a carriage shop, two cooper shops, a cabinet shop, two shoe shops and a milliner shop. It has a Free Mason's lodge and a Good Templar's lodge. The following are the officers of the Masonic lodge: S. W. Duncombe, W. M.; W. S. Hill, S. W.; J. E. Sweet, J. W.; R. Holmes, Secretary; Charles Duncombe, Treasurer; H. B. Babcock, S. D.; L. D. Robertson, J. D.; L. J. Wheeler, Tyler; F. E. Robertson and C. E. George, Stewards, and William Campbell, Chaplain.

LAWRENCE.

Historical and Descriptive Sketch of Lawrence.

On the first day of September, 1835, James Gray, with his wife and six children, started forth from Tecumseh, Lenawee county, in a lumber wagon, drawn by two yoke of oxen. With them they took what provision and household goods could be conveniently stowed away in the wagon, also a cow. After a march of ten weary days, during the last five miles of which they were obliged to cut their own road through the trackless wild, they at last reached the present site of the village of Lawrence. Finding Brush creek too much swollen to cross, they extemporized a rude bridge of fallen trees, and walked over with a little bedding and camped for the night. Next day they commenced the task of constructing a rude shanty of logs, ten by fifteen feet in size, whereof the floor was mother earth and the roof the boughs of trees. In this primitive temple, for six weeks, dwelt a family of eight souls. It is astonishing what small apartments suffice us when necessity compels, and how our wants expand with our means of gratifying them. This pioneer family felt no particular sense of discomfort, and found the means not only of supplying their own pressing wants, but of answering the demands of strangers upon their hospitality. At this time the wilds of Van Buren county were alive with land lookers, and one night as many as seven of them applied to Mr. Gray for lodgings. They were all accommodated, not indeed as inside lodgers, for a portion of them appropriated the lumber wagon box, and a heavy shower in the night demonstrated the fact that the inside lodgers had but little advantage over those on the outside.

Cotemporaneously with James Gray, or very soon afterward, the following persons settled in the township, viz: John and George Reynolds, Dexter Gibbs, Wm. Williams, Eaton and Israel Branch, John R. and Joseph Haynes, John D. Freeman, Stephen Fountain, E. Taylor and an Englishman by the name of Ganton. A log house built by Dexter Gibbs, in dimensions sixteen feet square, was the abode of three families. A hotel and a store were opened both in the same log building, the former kept by Dexter Gibbs, and the latter by John Allen, with E. Taylor as clerk. Among the most serious wants of those early settlers were mills to grind their grists, and supply them with lumber, though there were times when they even lacked the grists themselves, and it is related that there were families who subsisted for days upon leeks and such small game as they might chance to capture. Going to mill was not accomplished in a day, but was the work of days—sometimes more than a week—and getting disappointed in the grinding of it, was a calamity that involved hunger. The nearest grist mill was at Flowerfield.

When that was out of repair, grists were sometimes carried to Three Rivers. This scarcity of mills sometimes drove the people to novel expedients for furnishing themselves with meal. One was to burn a cavity in the top of a stump, fill it with corn, and pulverize it with a heavy weight attached to a spring pole. St. Joseph was their market town, and provisions were brought up the river from thence in boats.

Like nearly all Michigan towns, the early settlement of Lawrence was attended by miasmatic fevers. These sometimes assumed a virulent type; some died from exposure and want of care and proper nourishment. Thus in the midst of peril, hardship, sickness and distress began the settlement of Lawrence. It appears that the township was organized about the year 1837, for the first town meeting was held in the spring of that year, at the residence of Horace Stimson. A post office was established in 1836, with Horace Stimson, post master, but in 1837, the appointment was changed to John R. Haynes, who held the office till his death in 1856. In 1837, a school house was built and a school opened, taught by Truman Foster. The Presbyterians were the first denomination to establish a church. They organized in 1837 with Rev. Mr. Humphrey as pastor. The first marriage was that of William Williams to Betsey Gibbs in 1836. It was solemnized at the house of John D. Freeman, near Crystal lake, by a Justice of the Peace from Prairie Ronde. The first birth was that of Sarah E. Reynolds, on the 21st of March, 1836.

Stages commenced running between Kalamazoo and St. Joseph on the 15th day of January, 1836. The township of Lawrence is designated in the United States survey as town three south of range fifteen west.

It has a beautifully undulating surface and a rich sandy soil which is very easy of cultivation. It was originally very heavily timbered with beech, maple, whitewood, basswood, elm, ash, black walnut and butternut. It is well watered by Paw Paw river and its tributaries, together with numerous small lakes, the most important of which is Crystal lake, on the stage road to Decatur. This lake is about two miles long by a half a mile in width. Its name indicates the character of its waters. It abounds in fish and is a place of much resort for pleasure parties. Lawrence is being rapidly settled, and its farms are fast assuming a high state of cultivation. It contains about 500 voters, and an entire population of 2500.

The village of Lawrence contains about 1,000 inhabitants. It is centrally located in the county, and also in the township, and is not unlikely to become the county seat at no distant day. It has two daily mails, being on the stage route from Decatur to South Haven, and also on the route from Paw Paw to St. Joseph. It has three church organizations—Congregationalist, Rev. E. Cleveland, pastor; Baptist, Rev. Mr. McGregor, pastor, and Methodist, Rev. J. R. Skinner, pastor. The Congregationalists have a fine church edifice of brick, and the Baptists one of wood.

A fine Union school house of brick, costing $10,000, is nearly completed.

The village has also two secret societies, viz: Good Templars and Free Masons. It has two public halls, five dry goods stores, two drug stores, one hotel, one insurance and general collection office, one boot and shoe store, three grocery stores, two hardware stores, one cabinet and chair manufactory, one plaining mill, four saw mills, one grist mill, together with the usual professions and trades, and lastly, a paper railroad from Paw Paw to St. Joseph.

(The compilers desire to acknowledge their obligations to John B. Potter, Esq., for an exceedingly well written history of Lawrence, from which the above sketch is extracted, and to express their regret that their prescribed limits required its elimination.)

ANTWERP.

Historical and Descriptive Sketch of Antwerp.

The township of Antwerp, in the south-eastern part of Van Buren county, is designated in the United States survey as "town 3 south of R. 13 west." It consisted originally of what is generally known as "oak openings," with a soil of fine sandy loam, though mixed in some portions with clay and gravel. This was its general character, but it also contained about a thousand acres of timbered land, in the south-eastern part, and a strip of timber on the line of the Michigan Central Railroad, near Lawton. It is is watered by a fine stream running from south-east to north-west, which furnishes a water power for several mills. Being exceedingly easy of cultivation and remarkably free from swamp and waste lands, this township was rapidly settled, and to-day ranks, in an agricultural point of view, among the very wealthiest towns in the county. Among the first settlers were Andrew Longstreet, Jesse Abbe, R. Holmes, Joel Tomlinson, John K. Bingham, Joseph Woodman, Daniel and Harmon VanAntwerp, Philip Williams, Joshua Bangs, John Hill, John Lyon and Lyman Lawrence. The township was first settled in 1835, and the first house of any importance was built by Jesse Abbe, and kept as a house of entertainment for some time. R. Holmes built thefirst frame house, and Joshua Bangs the first frame barn. The township was first organized in 1837, and received its name from Harmon VanAntwerp, at that time the oldest inhabitant. At the first town meeting, held at the house of Philip Williams, the following among other officers were chosen: Supervisor, Andrew Longstreet; Clerk, John K. Bingham; Justices of the Peace, Joseph Woodman, R. Holmes, John K. Bingham and Andrew Longstreet.

Samuel Wells built the first saw mill as early as 1836, and not long afterward another was built by John K. Bingham. The great want of those times were mills, and especially grist mills. Illustrative of this inconvenience, Colonel Longstreet relates that he once spent sixteen days, with two yoke of oxen in getting thirty bushels of wheat ground at Whitmanville, a distance of twenty-five miles from home, having had to go four times after his grist. This was in 1835. In 1858, Solomon and Benjamin Phillips built the grist mill, now owned by J. H. Hutton, at a cost of about $6,000, and in 1864, Cowgill & McKeys built their monitor flouring mill at a cost of $15,000. In 1868, they also built a saw mill costing $1,800.

In 1849, the Michigan Central Railroad was built through Antwerp and the began its existence. The depot buildings were erected that year. At that time, Lawton contained no other buildings, excepting one or two log houses.

Colonel Longstreet built the first frame house, and H. McNeal opened a small store. In 1851, Doctor Shanklin built the first steam saw mill. A post office was established, with Colonel Longstreet as post master. The lands on which the village is located were owned by Nathan Lawton, Esq., of Watertown, New York, hence its name.

The village grew slowly until 1867, when the Michigan Central Iron Company located its works for the manufacture of pig iron there. Since then, its growth has been rapid, and it is now one of the most active business villages in the county. It contains at present a population of about 2,000. It has three church organizations. The Methodist Episcopal Church was organized in 1855, with eight members, Rev. S. Simmons, pastor. Its house of worship was erected in 1862, at a cost of $2,500. It has now a membership of 215; Rev. J. W. Miller, pastor.

The first Baptist Church was organized November 11, 1865, with twelve members, Rev. E. P. Dunham, pastor. The church was built in 1867, costing $1,500. Its present membership is twenty-six. The First Presbyterian Church was organized December 15, 1868, with eighteen members, and now hold religious meetings at Morrill's Hall, corner of Main and Second streets.

Lawton has a fine Union School house, erected in 1867, at a cost of $10,000. It also contains two hotels and numerous stores and business places, together with the usual professions and trades which are well represented. But the great institution of Lawton, and the one that pre-eminently makes it, and assures its permanent growth and prosperity is the Michigan Central Iron Works. This concern was organized in the Autumn of 1866 and went into operation in December, 1867. It is established on a permanent basis, and numbers among its stockholders the President of the United States, General Gilmore, General Porter and several other distinguished names. It gives employment to a large number of workmen, and cannot but contribute largely to the material prosperity of the community in which it is located.

(The publishers desire to acknowledge their indebtedness to C. M. Morrill, Esq., for the basis of the foregoing sketch, and for the assistance he has so cheerfully rendered from time to time, during the canvass of this work.)

Historical and Descriptive Sketch of Mattawan.

Mattawan is a fine growing village in the township of Antwerp. It lies on the Michigan Central Railroad, 154 miles west of Detroit, and 130 east of Chicago.

This village was located, in 1849, by Charles W. Scott, and owes its existence to the Michigan Central Railroad. John Cronkhite built the first building in 1850. This was a grocery and provision store. A post office was established the same year, and James Murray was appointed post master. J. J. Bliss built his warehouse in 1856. The first religious organization in the place was the Methodist Church. This denomination built their present place of worship in 1867, at a cost of $4,000. It has a membership of forty. The First Congregational Church was organized in 1867, and in 1868 built a house of worship at a cost of $4,000. Like most Michigan villages, Mattawan is alive to the interest of education, and in 1867 built a fine Union school house at a cost of $9,000. Besides the above public buildings, the village now contains several stores and two hotels, and the usual professions and mechanical trades. It has a population of about 800.

PAW PAW.

Historical and Descriptive Sketch of Paw Paw.

The first settlement in this township was made by Pierce Barber and Rodney Hinckley, sometime in the year 1832. Mr. Barber commenced the erection of a saw mill on the power now owned and occupied by H. & H. S. Ismon, in this village, but soon disposed of his interest to Job Davis and Mr. Hinckley.

In the summer of 1833, Peter Gremps and Lyman L. Daniels visited Paw Paw, and purchased the mill property, rebuilt the mill, and laid out the present village of Paw Paw.

During the years 1833-4, the following persons, with their families had settled in or near the village, to-wit: Mr. Agard, Mr. Bullinger, Wm. Gunn, Wm. Ackley, Archibald Buys, E. L. Barret, David Thorp, John Thomas and D. O. Dodge. Besides these there were of single men: A. Taylor, E. Shultz, Mr. Kimble and Dr. Barret.

Up to this time, nothing had been done in farming except by Mr. Gunn, and that on a small scale, the settlers assigning as a reason that it cost more to grow grain than it did to purchase it from the prairies.

The first hotel was opened by D. O. Dodge, in 1834, in a small building about 16 x 24, and was so embowered with standing oaks as to be visible but a short distance, and it was quite common, even as late as 1835, for travelers to stop at the hotel and inquire for the village of Paw Paw.

In the summer of 1835, Mr. Gremps settled permanently, with his family in the village, and Richard Hutchins, John Lyle, J. K. Pugsley, Hugh R. and Frank Jones, Asa G. Hinckley, Joseph Luce and E. Barnum settled on farms west of the river. About the same time, or a little later, several mechanics took up their residence in Paw Paw, among whom were George Smith, tailor —C. G. Harrington, shoemaker—Archibald Stewart, blacksmith—W. Mason, R. Avery, William Prater, Rufus Currier and R. E. Churchill, carpenters and joiners. The first store was built and opened by P. Gremps and E. Shultz, in the summer of 1835.

The first religious meeting attended by the writer, was held in Rodney Hinckley's blacksmith shop—a building, perhaps 12 feet square—in the spring of 1835, wherein the services were conducted by Elder Jonathan Hinckley, and the choir led by David Thorp. If I recollect right, there was no renting of slips nor reserved seats in the gallery.

The first physician located in Paw Paw was Dr. Warner, but of what "pathy" the writer hereof never knew. The first school was taught by the Doctor's daughter, in a log cabin, near Mr. Parker's tannery, a few rods north of where the oil well would have been, provided the borers had struck oil.

The first town meeting was held at the hotel of D. O. Dodge, on the first Monday in April, 1837, and L. H. Warner, D. O. Dodge and E. Barnum were chosen Inspectors of Elections, and declared the following persons elected, to-wit: Supervisor, D. O. Dodge—Justices of the Peace, J. K. Pugsley, drew for one year, L. H. Warner, for 2 years, E. Barnum, for three years, and J. H. Simmons, for four years—Collector, C. G. Harrington—Constable, David Thorp—Clerk, Edwin Mears.

(The publishers are enabled to place before the public the foregoing authentic historical and descriptive sketch of Paw Paw, through the kindness of Edwin Barnum, Esq., our present County Treasurer.)

PAW PAW RAIL ROAD.

HISTORY OF THE ORGANIZATION.

This company was organized under the general railroad law of Michigan, April 25th, 1857, with a capital of $20,000. John K. Pugsley, Elisha J. House, Franklin M. Manning, Charles M. Morrill, Loyal Crane, Henry Ismon, and Fitz H. Stevens were named as Directors in the Articles of Association. The road extends from Lawton, on the Michigan Central Railroad, to Paw Paw, a distance of four miles. The assets of the company having been expended and the road not constructed, on the 26th day of November, 1866, an association of the citizens of Paw Paw and Jackson, in this State, was formed, to whom all the property and franchises of the Railroad company were transferred, and the company re organized with a capital of $75,000. The line of the road was changed and its construction commenced in June, 1867, under the superintendency of Henry Fitch, Esq., and completed November 9th, 1867, since which time trains have been run regularly, connecting with all passenger trains on the Michigan Central Railroad at Lawton. The officers for the present year—1869—are Henry Ismon, President—Alonzo Sherman, Vice President—Thomas H. Stephenson, Secretary and Treasurer—John Ihling, Superintendent. The Directors consists of the officers above named and Horace S. Ismon W. R. Reynolds and Charles C. Ismon, of Jackson.

TIME CARD—1869.

7:00 A. M. Return from Lawton at 7:30 a. m., daily.
9:50 A. M. Connects with Mail East, daily except Sundays.
2:20 P. M. Connects with Way Freight East, and with Mail West, daily, except Sundays
8:50 P. M. Connects with Evening Express East.

SOUTH HAVEN.

Historical and Descriptive Sketch of South Haven.

South Haven occupies the northwestern corner of Van Buren county, its western border washed by the waves of Lake Michigan. Though territorially the smallest township in the county, it is by no means insignificant in enterprise and business energy. As a point of trade, it is second only to Decatur. It is the only seaport town in the county, and is pleasantly located at the mouth of Black river. Its principal commercial interests are lumber and fruit growing—the latter increasing rapidly and destined to rival those of St. Joseph.

Its favorable location was marked as a point of importance in the early development of the country, but in its earlier years it experienced those up and downs, and peculiar vicissitudes, in an extraordinary degree, which have from time to time so interrupted the prosperity of the State.

The site of the village was purchased of the government in 1834, by Judge Monroe, who built a log house on it and for a time resided there, but the tide of speculation running high soon after, the Judge took it at its flood, and sold out realizing a handsome profit on his investment. But a financial revolution soon after brought speculation to a crisis, and the town passed through what "Veritas," in the South Haven Sentinel, calls a "dark age" during which period it seemed to have been owned chiefly by non-residents.

The beginning of the permanent prosperity of South Haven dates from about the year 1851. Among the men who devoted their energies to its upbuilding we find conspicuous the names of Marvin Hannah, Joseph B. Sturgis, A. Blood, Capt. M. J. Mitchell, Horace S. Thomas, Joseph Dow, S. B. Morehouse, Alpha and Nelson Tubbs and several of the Dyckman family. In those early days, its forests were, of course, its chief present wealth. Its stalwart pines invited thither the lumberman, and its sturdy hemlock forests the tanner. The following passage from "Veritas," in the South Haven Sentinel, of August 3d, 1867, will give the reader some idea of the place in 1851:

"There pictured in memory, we see the narrow valley wandering dreamily between wooded bluffs, the modest river gliding into the lap of the sea, the lone cottage nestled among the trees by the lake bank, the mill puffing by the river side, the emerald and blue waters reaching away to the sunset, the larger sail craft and all steam vessels passing by in utter scorn, while only the little 'Lapwing,' with her neat hull of clincher work, and her fore and aft sails venturing to pass the shoal water over the bar. Which bar every west wind will render emphatic by raising a ridge of sand quite across the entrance—a bar in the superlative degree, of such dimensions and solidity that a yoke of oxen and a scraper are often used to open it and let the pent up river free. Such is a rough sketch of South Haven, as it appeared in the spring of the year 1851."

The following tribute to Capt. M. J. Mitchell, from the same versatile pen, properly belongs to the early history of South Haven:

"Capt. M. J. Mitchell, master of the little schooner 'Lapwing,' was the first and long the only reliable navigator from this port.

"From the coast of Norway, where he was born, he had been 'all seas over,' and had added to native good sense a wide experience on the world of waters. His sunbrown face was as far removed as possible from all ideas of superficial beauty; and his features, that so ran counter to all classic lines, usually wore an expression of peculiar solemnity.

"Yet, beneath the rough exterior, there breathed a soul, gentle, warm and true, and not measured by the extent of his short person. Modestly it would look out of his eyes like refined starlight, or, when moved by some happy thought, would ripple in wave-like lines over his genial countenance. Those who had occasion to take passage with Capt. Mitchell, will not soon forget his kind and inobtrusive attentions.

"When we heard that off the Kalamazoo river, in a terrible gale, a certain schooner was capsized, and all on board lost; and knew that the master of that boat was Capt. Mitchell, we were oppressed with sorrow—felt that we had lost a friend. That he was more than worthy of this poor tribute to his fair fame, cannot be denied: and that he was master of the first boat, engaged in regular trade with this port, is worthy to be remembered."

In 1853, the population of South Haven was only 200. Since that time, and especially since the termination of the late war, there has been a healthy growth in population and wealth. As an evidence of its present thrift and enterprise, and also of the fact that its business men discern the signs of the times, and appreciate their true interest, the compilers would call attention to their large representation in the advertising department of this work. It will be seen, that in this respect they are in bold and striking contrast with towns of more aristocratic pretensions.

VAN BUREN COUNTY.

The county of Van Buren, at its first organization, was attached to the county of Cass, for judicial purposes, and was known as the township of La Fayette. A Supervisor was elected for the whole county, who met the Board of Supervisors in Cass, to transact the business of both counties, The two counties formed one Representative District, and sent two members to the Legislature.

The deeds and mortgages of lands in Van Buren were all recorded in Cass county—since recorded in this county at public expense—and all issues at law to be tried by the Circuit Court were tried before the Cass county court.

By an act of the Legislature, approved March 18th, 1837, Van Buren was detached from Cass, and the courts were held at such places as the Supervisors might select—and Paw Paw was selected. By an act of the Legislature approved March 6th, 1840, the county seat was located permanently at Paw Paw.

FIRST DIVISION INTO TOWNS.

By Legislative enactment, approved March 11th, 1837, the county was divided into seven towns, to-wit: Clinch, comprising the present towns of Pine Grove, Almena, Waverly and Bloomingdale; South Haven, South Haven, Deerfield, Geneva, Bangor and Columbia; Lawrence, Lawrence, Arlington and Hartford; Covington, Keeler and Hamilton; Decatur, Decatur and Porter; LaFayette, Paw Paw; Antwerp, Antwerp.

The first election for county officers was held the first Monday in April, 1837, resulting as follows: Sheriff, Samuel Gunton, of Lawrence—Treasurer, Daniel O. Dodge, of Paw Paw—Clerk, N. B. Starkweather, of Lawrence—Register of Deeds, J. H. Simmons, of Paw Paw—Judge of Probate, J. H. Simmons, Paw Paw—Surveyor. H. P. Barnum, of Clinch—Associate Judges, Jay R. Monroe, of Lawrence; W. H. Keeler, of Covington—Coroners, Junia Warner, Jr., of Clinch; John R. Haynes, of Lawrence.

Samuel Gunton and D. O. Dodge having resigned, a special election was held September 20th, same year, and Col. Andrew Longstreet was elected Sheriff, and Joshua Bangs, Treasurer. The two latter were of Antwerp.

Almena Township.

Almena, Waverly, Bloomingdale and Pine Grove were originally organized as one township, to which the name of Clinch was given, in honor of Judge Clinch, of Georgia. This was in 1837. The first white settler of the town of Almena, was Joseph Derosier, a Frenchman, whose wife was a squaw.

The township is six miles square and consequently contains thirty-six sections. It is watered by a branch of Paw Paw River, and several small lakes. The township is divided by a strip of low timbered land, which traverses it from north-east to south-west. This portion of the town is but little improved as yet, but is susceptible of becoming excellent pasture and meadow land. The town has one steam saw mill and one flouring mill, (both owned by S. W. Fisk), one water saw mill (owned by Lawrence Brewer), one sash and door factory (owned by Walter Wise), one blacksmith shop, one wagon maker, one shoe shop, two dry goods stores and one hardware. The soil in the southern part is sandy and productive. That of the northern part is clayey and much more heavily timbered. There are two church organizations—Free Will Baptist and Methodist—and seven school houses. The town has one post office, and a semi-weekly mail.

The following are the names of the first permanent settlers who came in at about the same time. Juna Warner, jun., Willard Newcomb, Horace Bonfoey, Freeman Hall, John A. Ranney, Isaac Barnum, Henry Barnum, Asahel Downing, F. C. Annable, Nathaniel Livermore, Jacob Currier, Charles M. Morrill and Thomas Brown. Of these, only seven are now living, and two of them have returned to New England, from whence they emigrated. The first saw mill was built in the town by Jonas Barber, in 1835.

A few of the Pottawattamie and Ottawa Indians held camping grounds in Almena, until 1845, when they were all removed west of the Mississippi by the general government, excepting a few families who had purchased land and claimed to be civilized.

[NOTE.—We have extracted the foregoing facts from a very humerous and racy sketch of the town, furnished us by F. C. Annable, Esq., but which was unfortunately too voluminous for our purpose, to be used as a whole.—COMPILERS.]

Arlington Township.

Wm. Taylor was the first settler in Arlington. He located on Sec. 8, in 1838, and was followed soon after by Allen Briggs. In 1839, Maj. Heath, D. D. and E. O. Briggs and Wm. Bridges came into the township, and the next year (1840), the township began to fill up quite rapidly. In 1841, it was set off from Lawrence, and organized as a township. At the first town meeting, only fourteen votes were cast. Maj. Heath was chosen Supervisor, Alvin Harris, Clerk, and Allan Briggs, Treasurer. The same year, Wm. Bridges built the first frame house. At this time, James Stevens, an octogenarian, was the oldest inhabitant. To him was very properly conceded the privilege of giving a name to the township. He selected the name of Arlington, from a town of that name in Vermont, whence he had emigrated.

Arlington is a fine agricultural district and is being rapidly brought into a good state of cultivation. The surface is undulating, some of the undulations coming not far short of big hills. The soil is of a rich sand and clay loam, highly productive of the cereals and all crops grown in Western Michigan. In 1868, Mr. Hogmire grew seventy bushels of corn to the acre. But Arlington is perhaps most distinguished for its enormous growth of timber. None but those who have tried it can fully appreciate the herculean labor of transmuting those huge forests into productive farms. Trees of three, four and five feet in diameter are not at all uncommon. A black walnut grew on Sec. 17, in this township, to the enormous height of 140 feet, and measured at three feet above the ground, thirty-five feet and eight inches in circumference.

The township is watered by Elizabeth Creek, and several smaller streams. Paw Paw River cuts off a portion of the south-east corner, the part thus cut off belonging to Lawrence.

In the eastern part is a fine limestone quarry, which is believed to be the only one in the county. It is worked by Amentus Earle, Esq., who is producing large quantities of excellent lime.

The daily stage line from Decatur to South Haven runs through Arlington, giving the inhabitants a daily mail. Population, 1,700.

Bloomingdale Township.

On a bleak December day in the year 1837, Mallory H. Myers, with his mother, three brothers and two sisters, having penetrated the trackless forests of Van Buren county to a distance of seven miles from any inhabitant, halted, built a log heap, set it on fire, melted away the snow which was over a foot deep, extemporized a rude tent of poles, covered with quilts and blankets, and made their first night's lodging on the frozen earth. Their next work was to construct a house of logs, thirty feet by fourteen, with a single roof, covered with troughs, hewn out of trees and innocent of any floor or carpet whatever. Thus, in mid winter, commenced the first settlement of Bloomingdale, which at that time, together with Waverly, Pine Grove and Almena, constituted the township of Clinch. In 1842 Clinch was divided in the center—north and south—the western half receiving the name of Waverly. In 1845, the northern half of Waverly was set off under the name of Bloomingdale.

The pioneer family did not, however, dwell long in solitude. They were soon followed by Joseph Peck, Ashbel Herron, Daniel G. Robinson, Henry Mower, Joseph Brotherton, Harviland Thayer, Alanson Todd, Ira S. Frary, O. H. Newcomb and David Loveland. The first marriage in the township was that of James Scott, of Decatur, to Ruth A. Myers, in 1838. Their nuptials were celebrated at the house of Mallory H. Myers. The first death was that of William Brownal, in May, 1839. In December, 1839, John Wesley Herron, son of Ashbel Herron, was born. This was the first birth in the township.

The early interest of the inhabitants in education is shown in the fact that in less than a year from the first settlement, they had built a log school house, and supported a school for seven months with only seven pupils. Such devotion to the cause of education, in the midst of their toils and privations, is highly creditable to those veteran pioneers. This log school house in the forest was the nursery of piety as well as their educatien. In it was preached the first sermon in the township, by Noah D. Sweet, August 3, 1839. The prevailing forms of religious worship were Methodist and Free Will Baptist. The latter denomination have now a church in the vicinity, with a membership of 100. Elder W. H. H. Myers was pastor of this church for many years. He died in 1865.

The Masonic and Good Templar fraternities are represented in the township.

The following are some of the principal officers elected at the first township meeting: Supervisor, Mallory H. Myers—Town Clerk, Hiram T. Houghton—Treasurer, Ashbel Herron—Justices of the Peace, Wm. H. H. Myers, Ira S. Frary, Ashbel Herron.

The surface of Bloomingdale is mostly level and the soil generally good for farming purposes. Some portions of the town are clayey, and others gravelly, but by far the greater portion is of a sandy loam. The timber is chiefly beech, maple, basswood, elm, ash, butternut, black walnut and white wood. The latter is very abundant. There are some pinelands and some timbered openings. The township is well watered by small streams and numerous lakes. It has two post offices—one at Bloomingdale Center, with a semi-weekly mail, and one at Goble's Corners, with a daily mail. It has three dry goods or general variety stores, seven mills and three blacksmith shops. It has also three physicians, three masons, four mill wrights, five carpenters and builders, one cooper, one surveyor and one lawyer.

The present number of school districts is ten, and the average attendance of pupils, thirty-five. The present number of voters is three hundred, and the whole population about 1,500.

Bloomingdale was well represented in the Union army during the late rebellion, and no less than nine of her sons yielded up their lives in the service of their country. It is meet that their names should be embalmed in the memory of a grateful people, and it is with pleasure that we record them in this brief history of the town they represented. Their names are as follows: Elijah Bush, N. Van Brunt, George Gay, G. F. Gault, Milton Drummond, Merrit Daniels, Charles Rheil, William W. Myers and J. Hudson.

[NOTE.—The compilers acknowledge their indebtedness to M. H. Myers, Esq., for the statistics upon which the above sketch of Bloomingdale is based and regret that the limits to which they have confined their book, will not admit of using all the materials he has so generously placed at their disposal.]

Deerfield Township.

Deerfield lies in the western part of Van Buren county, on Lake Michigan. Although belonging to the famous Michigan "Fruit Belt," no settler found his way to it until 1844. In that year, Benona Young made a settlement on section 15. Here he lived without a neighbor until 1852, when John Peters and Matthias Farnum came in. James Dobbin was added to the settlement in 1854, and Hiram Fish in 1855. These pioneers are now all living (1869), with the exception of Mr. Peters.

In 1856, the township was organized, and the first town meeting resulted in the election of W. A. Dell, Supervisor, and Hiram Fish, Clerk.

The plenitude of deer in the neighborhood suggested to Mr. Fish the propriety of calling the town Deerfield, which name was adopted by the Board of Supervisors. The first death in the township was that of George Farnum, son of Matthias Farnum; the first birth that of Marietta Young, and the first marriage that of Allen Fish to Jane Young in 1859.

Deerfield is heavily timbered, and lumbering is the most important branch of industry at present. But fruit growing is destined to become the leading interest of the township. The soil is rich and sandy and produces in great abundance wheat, corn and potatoes. The surface is gently undulating, excepting near the lake shore, where it rises into abrupt and picturesque hills. Thunder mountain, on the coast, is a point of romantic interest and attracts many visitors. This wonderful pile rises in a regular slope from the lake to the height of 140 feet, and seems to have been thrown up by some natural convulsion. From its summit, the view of the lake and surrounding country is picturesque in the extreme. But while feasting his vision on the beauty of the surrounding prospect, the visitor's attention is arrested by hollow detonations and sounds as of distant artillery, and he feels himself transfixed with awe, as in the presence of the supernatural. These sounds are often, but not always, heard by visitors to this wonderful mountain. Their cause has never yet been ascertained.

Besides Thunder mountain, Deerfield has several other curiosities. One is Bullhead lake, whose waters have hitherto proved unfathomable. Upon its shores, vestiges of Indian canoes are found, and its waters abound in fish. Another curiosity is an original beaver dam, in a good state of preservation.

Deerfield has also its "deserted village." St. Paul on the lake shore once boasted a population of seventy-five souls. Now, but a single inhabitant remains among its ruins to tell the tale of its former greatness. Its antiquity can hardly be regarded as fabulous as the antiquarian can only trace its existence back to 1857.

The religious denominations represented in the township are the Methodists and Christians. Neither of them have a church edifice at present. Religious services are held in school houses. The Christians have a fine Sabbath school. The township is but sparsely settled as yet. It has but four school districts, and an entire population of only 600.

Geneva Township.

As early as 1833, Clark Pierce settled on section thirty-one, in this township. In 1835, he was followed by Eri Eaton and Andrew Miner. The next settler was Philip Hoege, in 1848 or some thirteen years later. Next, Nathan Tubbs, in 1849, and Moses Welch, in 1850.

Marvin Hannahs built the first frame house at a place in the township called Jericho, when he also located a tannery and other manufacturing establishments.

The first birth in the township was that of Laura, daughter of Clark Pierce. The first death was that of Americus, son of Philip Hoege. The first wedding was a double one, celebrating the nuptials of Charles Eaton with Mary Eastman, and Orville Fellows with Jane Eastman.

The Methodists were the first denomination to gain a foothold in the township. Religious services were first held at the private residence of Nathan Tubbs, in 1852.

Up to 1854, Geneva was a part of the township of Columbia. In that year it was set off and organized, and the first town meeting resulted in the choice of Nathan Tubbs, Supervisor; Charles Hoege, Clerk, and P. M Brooks, Treasurer.

Geneva is heavily timbered with beech, whitewood, ash and cherry, and in some parts with pine and hemlock. Its surface is generally level, but in the central part it is somewhat broken. It has a good soil for fruit and grain growing purposes, and is well watered by Black river and its tributaries.

In 1862, Winban, Clark & Co., built their steam saw mill. The township now contains seven saw mills and one grist mill. It has also one tannery, one grocery and provision store, three blacksmith shops and two wagon shops. It has seven district schools, and several religious organizations. Nearly all the early settlers are now living, and the township is rapidly filling up with intelligent and enterprising citizens. During the last three years there has been an average influx of seventy settlers per year. Its present population is 1,500.

Hamilton Township.

Hamilton is described in the United States survey as township 4, south of range 15, west. It is one of the finest agricultural towns in Van Buren county, and is distinguished for the general thrift and prosperity of its farmers. The surface is slightly undulating, and is generally inclined to a level. The northern portion is heavily timbered—the central and southern portions are mostly oak openings. In the south-eastern part are several sections of low, unimproved lands. With this exception, the township is in a good state of cultivation. It has a rich and varied soil, partaking of the characteristics indicated by the timber in the different localities. There are no crops raised in western Michigan but what Hamilton produces in abundance. Like all the neighboring towns, it is well adapted to fruit growing. The northern part is watered by a branch of the Paw Paw river, on which the flouring and saw mills of Robert Nesbit are located. The south-eastern part is watered by a branch of Dowagiac creek, which rises in Lake of the Woods, a beautiful sheet of water about one and a half miles in diameter, lying between Hamilton and Decatur. The township also contains several smaller lakes or lakelets, the most important of which are School-lot lake, Knickerbocker Pine and Foster.

The old Territorial road from Detroit to St. Joseph, built more than forty years ago, passes through Hamilton. Upon this road the first settlers located as early as 1832. Zebina Stearns located on section 17; Lewis Johnson on section 16, and Philotus Hayden on section 16. In 1834, Aaron Barney located on section 30; Reason Comley on section 28, and Robert Nesbit on section 4. Soon after Calvin Fields and James Brooks located on section 33. In 1836, James Lombard located on section 15. Robert Nesbit built the first saw mill, in 1834. He also built the first grist mill, in 1856. The first school was opened near what is now known as Brown's tavern, in 1837, with twenty pupils.

Hamilton and Keeler were originally organized under the name of Covington, about the year 1837. In 1839 they were divided into separate townships. The first town meeting in Hamilton, was held at the house of Henry Coleman, who then kept what is now known as Brown's tavern.

Of the above named early settlers, Lewis Johnson, Reason Comley, Robert Nesbitt, Calvin Fields, James Brooks and James Lombard still survive; Aaron Barney died about 1857.

Philotus Hayden was a man of large means and extended influence. During the late civil war, he distinguished himself by his active patriotism and lively sympathy with the cause of his country. As a politician, his influence was felt in the politics of the State. As a neighbor, he was noted for his kindness of heart, and active benevolence, and when he died in 1866, he carried with him the benedictions of the poor.

Pine Grove Township.

This township derives its name from the extensive pine forests it contains. It is a heavily timbered region; pine, oak, beech and maple predominating. Whitewood, walnut, ash and cherry are distributed sparingly.

The surface is rather broken, the soil of a sandy loam, and adapted to the production of grain and fruit. It is well watered by numerous small lakes.

Pine Grove was first settled in 1841, by Jerome Thresher and John Hawks, on section twenty-one. D. C. Lockman came in in 1842, and S. N. White in 1843. About 1845, Henry Veley located on section four. Henry Van Tassel, Harvey M. Babbitt and John Southard were among the next comers.

In 1848, the township was organized. The first town meeting at which 23 votes were polled, resulted in the choice of C. M. Morrill, Supervisor; D. C. Lockman, town clerk, and Smith Dyckman, treasurer.

The first school house was built in 1845, on section eighteen.

Judge Dyckman and C. M. Morrill built the first steam saw mill, in 1847.

The township has now one water and six steam saw mills, one steam shingle mill, and one extensive stave factory. The staple product is lumber, and will be for some time to come; but Pine Grove will ultimately take rank among the agricultural towns of the state. It has a population of 800.

Porter Township.

The township of Porter is situated in the south eastern corner of Van Buren county, and is bounded on the east by Prairie township, Kalamazoo Co., and south by Marcellas, Cass Co. It was originally heavily timbered with oak, beech, elm, basswood &c. It has a rich, sandy soil, and is perhaps excelled by no township in Van Buren county, in the production of cereals and grasses. It is watered almost wholly by small lakes with which it is most abundantly supplied. Scarcely a farm but has one or more of them. The larger and more important of them are named Banksons, Huzzys, Grass, Cedar and Gravel. Porter was set off from Decatur, and became an independent township in 1845.

In 1830, Abner Mack made the first settlement. His house was then the only one between the two prairies. The next settler was Elijah Kinney. In the immediate neighborhood of Mr. Kinney, was at that time an Indian village, containing a population of about one hundred souls. With these Indians, Mr. Kinney always lived on the most friendly terms, and exercised over them an influence for good—settling their little disputes and differences. The white population soon began to increase. Among the early settlers the names of Elizabeth Gibson, a widow; Benjamin Reynolds, Stephen Kinney, Roderic Bell, Daniel Alexander and Matthew Lewis stand conspicuous.

The township now contains one house of religious worship, built recently by the Methodist denomination. It has ten school districts, and an average number of fifty pupils to each, and an entire population of 1,500.

[To Orsamus Williams, Esq., the compilers would respectfully tender their thanks for the basis of the foregoing sketch.]

Waverly Township.

Waverly is one of the four townships that originally constituted the town of Clinch. It was first settled in 1837, by Reuben J. Myers and Merlin M. Myers, of the same family of Mallory H. Myers, the first settler of Bloomingdale. Loring Hulbert and Benj. Fink settled in the township in 1838, and William Murch, Isaac Brown, Amon Cary and Rezin Bell, in 1839. Leonard Lull, Phile Herron, —. Taylor, Almon B. Cary, Daniel Kelyea, Joseph Cox, Isaac Spaulding, J. C. Armstrong, Ebenezer Armstrong, Jonah Austin and John Scott were among the early settlers. The first marriage in Waverly, was that of William Murch to Sarah O. Myers, in 1840. The first birth, that of John D., son of Isaac Brown, in 1839. The first death was that of a son of Rezin Bell, aged six years, in the spring of 1840. In 1842, Clinch was divided into Almena and Waverly, and early in the year 1845, Bloomingdale was set off from Waverly. The first town meeting held in and for the township of Waverly as it now stands, was on the 7th of April, 1845. The number of votes cast, was thirteen, and the following were some of the principal officers chosen, viz: Supervisor, R. J. Myers; clerk, Elisha Marple; Treasurer, Rezin Bell.

The first frame house built in town was that of J. C. Armstrong, in 1846.

The surface of Waverly is somewhat diversified, but is generally level. About three sections in the south east corner, consists of oak openings with sandy soil. West of this along the south line, the lands are swampy and timbered with black ash, elm, beech, maple etc., with some white cedar and pine. North of this there is a large whortleberry marsh, covering nearly three sections. The balance of the township is good farming land, heavily timbered with beech, maple, whitewood, black walnut, etc. A considerable portion of the township is under good cultivation. The soil is best adapted to the production of cereals, wheat being the staple. The township is well watered by the Paw Paw river and its tributaries, the big and little Brandywine, and by small lakes which, like nearly all Michigan towns, it has in abundance. The streams are not sufficiently rapid to furnish water power, but the township contains several steam mills.

Waverly has two post offices, one in the eastern part of the township, called Waverly, with a tri-weekly mail, J. E. Showerman, P. M.; and one near the center of the township, called Glendale, with a semi-weekly mail, —. Lane, P. M. Notwithstanding it has no village, the township is tolerably well supplied with mechanics, artisans and tradesmen.

The Free-will Baptists and Methodists are the leading religious denominations represented in the township.

Waverly has a population of fifteen hundred, and three hundred and fifteen voters.
